Good clinical examples, great discussion of scenario.
 Great course.
 Practical, relevant, excellent sharing opportunity for peers.
 Excellent information and very relevant.
 Good use of time, lots of action practice (role playing)
 Many years of experience in practice, very helpful with suggestions.
 Great overview of all restricted acts and the practical component was great.
 Clarity of issues involved and clear procedure of how to proceed if having a negative response to protocol.
 Quite comprehensive it is one of the only approved for restricted activities.
 I feel more prepared to handle common and rare emergencies.
 Good refresher for emergency scenarios and how to address them. Loved the demo style course.
 Individualized exercise work discussion group were very useful and informative. Instructors were very good.
 Very well organized and very informative. The instructors were amazing and full of knowledge. They allowed an environment conducive to learning and questions.
 Great charts for reference, great quality instructors and not for profit.
 Appreciative of the relevance of information as it relates to the actual procedures we are doing in our office. I also appreciate the life experience of the instructors.
 Lots of role playing which allows you to make mistakes and learn from them.

What would you change about this course?

Bigger table per group.
 Venue was cramped and less scenarios needed.
 Felt like information wasn't effective for learning and role play was not help for because the information was not concise with what was being taught.
 Less role play. Role play scenarios worked better when we just discussed and reviewed with group members.
 Slides left to right not top to bottom.
 More structure during the role play and more time for questions.
 Three day course, first day was very long.
 Less rushed to get through all the role play.
 More case structure.
 Send out course outline and put up the times on the website.
 Shorten and condense the beginning (the first hour or so)
 Needed more breaks between long content sections.
